

WHO WE ARE

Advocates for Healthcare Access is a student organization that is dedicated to improving access to quality healthcare in underserved and rural areas.

Rural Communities

Advocates For Healthcare Access

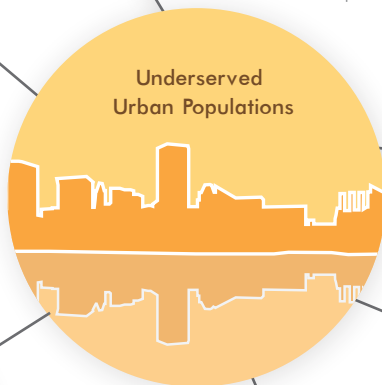

Improving Access To Quality Healthcare

Johns Hopkins School of Nursing

Global Communities

Underserved
Urban Populations

OUR PURPOSE

To investigate, educate, and equip students with the necessary tools and resources to effect change in underserved populations through presentations from guest speakers, trips to underserved areas, and community service.

13%

of Maryland adults could not see a doctor in the past 12 months because of costs (2013)*

*statistics taken from the Henry J. Kaiser Family Foundation. www.kff.org

DISHEARTENING
LOCAL FACTS

20%

of Maryland adults do not have a personal doctor (2013)*

48

primary care Health Professional Shortage Areas in Maryland meet only 55.31% of need (2014)*

IT MATTERS!

Everyone deserves access to quality healthcare, but not everyone has access to these resources due to geographic, financial, and physical barriers.

Johns Hopkins
School of Nursing Advocates for Healthcare Access
Student Group

To join, contact Kimmi Katada at kkatada2@jhmi.edu or Kathleen Littleton at klittl17@jhmi.edu

Join our Facebook group:
<https://www.facebook.com/groups/JHUSON.AHA>